

Teaching English Today

A project of the English Academy of Southern Africa

www.teachenglishtoday.org

Dear colleagues

We are pleased to be able to update our website after a few years' break. This has been made possible by the sponsorship from the National Lottery Distribution Fund.

Please note:

- We have edited contributions but have tried to retain the flavor and style of the originals.
- The Academy does not necessarily endorse the views expressed by individual authors.

Many thanks to those who responded to our call for contributions. Congratulations to Andrew Graaf, who won the R250 prize for the Best Teaching Tip.

Our next issue is scheduled to go online in October 2016. We once again invite teachers, teacher trainers, departmental officials, personnel at English-related organizations and other educationists to

- Send in suggestions / issues that you would like to have featured.
- Submit articles on aspects of teaching English in schools (both practical and theoretical), teaching tips (which can be anything from 50 – 500 words), information about teaching resources, for publication. We offer an award of R400 for the best article and R250 for the best teaching tip, provided they meet our minimum criteria of accuracy, readability and value for English teachers.
- Give us news about related organizations and advertisements for courses, seminars, etc. These we will publish free of charge.

Please send these at any time – but not later than 14 September - to the Editor at drv@worldonline.co.za

Congratulations to the SA Council for English Education (SACEE), which last year celebrated its 60th year, is proud to be celebrating the 50th edition of English Alive and the 40th English Olympiad this year.

Best wishes
